Sale of Ostrich Plumes

98c. $1.98 $2.98
$2 Values. $3 and $4 Values. $4.50-$6.50 Values

Early in the week we got word that a certain stock of fine Ostrich Plumes would be on the market at a price, and our offer for the entire stock was accepted. This purchase gives us by far the greatest buying opportunity ever presented to the women of this city. The size of the stock, the splendid variety, the exceptionally fine qualities, are big attractions in themselves—but they are overshadowed by the ridiculously little prices we are able to quote.

Ostrich Plumes are immensely popular this season, and promise to continue so for many seasons to come. In the face of such exceptional demand it is an extraordinary thing to be able to offer the finest grades of plumes at half price and thereabouts. Therefore it is an offering to be enthusiastically welcomed by every woman who wants a handsome plume for as little and even less than the ordinary sort usually cost.

$2 Plumes, 98c.

In black only.
Handsome, rich-lustered, broad fiber French or Amazon Plumes, large heads and exceptionally fine quality.
One of these Plumes with a Velvet Hat at $1.98, worth $4, will give you a handsome dress hat at trifling cost.

$3 & $4 Plumes, $1.98. $4.50 to $6.50 Plumes, $2.98.

In black, white and colors.
Very handsome French Plumes, long, broad fibers, rich lustered. In exquisite shadings and colors, such as solid brown, brown shaded, solid blue and blue shaded, terra cotta, pink, five shades of green, shaded red, violet, purple, bluet, etc.

Values such as these should command the attention of every woman who appreciates quality. They comprise the very highest grade and finest sorts of French Plumes, in black, white and all colors, as well as a complete range of shaded effects.

DISCUSS INTOXICANTS

LIQUOR PROBLEM IN INDIAN TERRITORY A MOHONK TOPIC.

Prominent Educators Address Today's Conference—Question of Exclusion in Enabling Act.

LAKE MOHONK, N. Y., October 21.—Consideration of the liquor problem in Indian territory, and especially the proposal to incorporate in the enabling act admitting the territory into the Union as one or two states a clause forever excluding the sale of intoxicating drinks in the new state or states, was taken up at today's session of the Indian conference.

The first speaker was A. S. McKennon of South McAlester, who was an associate of the late Senator Dawes in the original five tribes commission.

Mr. McKennon's Remarks.

He said, in part: "The lands of the Indian territory were patented by the United States to the several tribes therein, viz, to the Cherokees, Creeks, Chickasaws and Seminoles, and each tribe was permitted to govern itself, each having a government fashioned somewhat after our state governments, the legislative body of each being termed the 'general council.' These councils enacted laws forbidding the introduction, sale or use of liquors, in keeping with the United States laws and their treaties. The utter degradation and ruin which will come to them from the introduction of intoxicating liquors, and they now plead piteously for the government to keep its oft-repeated pledges to them by inserting a provision in said enabling act, requiring that the state constitution shall prohibit the manufacture, introduction, sale, barter or giving away of intoxicants of any kind, for any purpose, within the state.

Concerns Both Whites and Indians.

"This, in brief, is the situation which is the matter of the greatest concern to the people of the Indian territory, Indians and whites alike. As a result of the present laws prohibiting all traffic in intoxicants, we have the most sober and law-abiding people I know, considering the fact that we have not more than one peace officer to ten maintained in the states. If the saloon is turned loose on us we will have little better than a pandemonium while the Indian lasts. There is a provision in the proposed enabling act prohibiting the sale of liquor to Indians, but this will not serve as a protection. It must be absolute prohibition or nothing.

As the Muskogee Ministers' Association, which held a great mass meeting at South McAlester a few weeks ago, pointed out, 'Many of the Indians are closely resemble whites that the color line will be impossible to draw; and moreover, even if it were possible to forbid sale of intoxicants to Indians, those who know the Indian know he is in dire peril with intoxicants anywhere within reach; those who have seen the results of the white practices by the low class of whites who seek to deprive the Indian of his inheritance know what will be the result if liquor is introduced into the new state.'

"The association says 'Let us avoid taking any position on the question of single or separate statehood. We want prohibition, whether single or separate statehood. More specifically we want the present statehood bill either satisfactorily amended (to exclude intoxicants) or else defeated in the Senate.'

Indorsed McKennon's Views.

Dr. A. Grant Evans, president of a Presbyterian seminary at Muskogee, Indian territory, indorsed and emphasized the views expressed by Mr. McKennon. He said that a federation of all the churches in the territory had been formed to urge the federal government to keep its original pledges made to the Indians in regard to the exclusion of liquor from the country.

He laid stress upon the point that whatever is to be done toward securing a prohibitory clause in the proposed enabling act must be done without delay. The question was a vital one for the future state, the speaker said, for with the mixed population of the region, which includes a large number of colored people, the introduction of the saloon would be an unmitigated curse.

Miss Alice Robertson, for many years a teacher among the Indians, urged the members of the conference to write letters to their representatives in Congress asking that a larger appropriation be made at the coming session for the extension of school privileges among the people of the Indian territory. Referring to the liquor traffic, Miss Robertson declared that liquor was often used by designing and unscrupulous whites to further their nefarious designs upon the Indians.

Injured in Runaway.

Some little excitement was caused shortly after 2 o'clock this afternoon on Pennsylvania avenue at 9th street by a pair of horses attached to a heavy United States mail wagon becoming unmanageable and running away. The wagon to which they were attached collided with a coal wagon driven by Robert Scott, who was knocked to the ground and painfully but not seriously injured. The Emergency Hospital ambulance was summoned and he was taken to the hospital. One of the horses of the coal wagon was broken. There was no damage to the mail wagon.
